

How to Reinstate Your Club

If your Club would like to become active again, it has two options.

Under OPTION 1, the Club must:

1. Pay current semiannual dues for a minimum of eight members, at least three of whom were members of the Club immediately before the Club became inactive.
2. Pay a $90 (US) reinstatement fee.
3. Pay any past due account.
4. Submit a current Club Officer list.

With this option, each person's membership record begins with the reinstatement date. All previous membership history is lost.

Under OPTION 2, the Club must:

1. Pay current semiannual dues for a minimum of eight members, at least three of whom were members of the Club immediately before the Club became inactive.
2. Pay semiannual dues for the previous period for a minimum of eight members, at least three of whom were members of the Club immediately before the Club became inactive.
3. Pay any past due account.
4. Submit a current Club officer list.

With this option, each person's membership record continues to reflect the original join date, provided no other breaks in membership occurred.

If your Club has been inactive for two or more full semiannual reports periods, it must charter as a new Club, meeting all charter requirements. It may not reinstate.
